BRICK 1 · SORT BY TIME PATH · APPROX. 4 MIN

Sort each context: past condition with a present result, or standing condition with a past result.

delayed safety review, risky launch today

limited French skills, missed Lyon role last year skipped backup, missing records now

cautious director, rejected bold proposal yesterday

ignored maintenance, slower production this week weak network, lost overseas client in May cancelled training, confused team today

small warehouse, declined large order last month missed rehearsal, nervous speakers now strict budget, postponed expansion in June

PAST → PRESENT

STANDING → PAST

BRICK 2 · COMPLETE THE RESULT FORM · APPROX. 6 MIN

Complete each gap. First decide whether the result applies now or belongs to the past.

- 02 If Omar knew Excel better, he _____ the error yesterday.
- 03 If we _____ earlier, the portal would work today.
- 04 If space were larger, they _____ Monday's workshop.
- 05 If Lena had documented it, we _____ the cause now.

BRICK 3 · CORRECT THE TIME RELATIONSHIP · APPROX. 7 MIN

Each sentence contains one error with condition time, result time, or would have after if.

01 If we had recruited, staffing would have been easier now.

02 If Mara had authority, she would approve it yesterday.

.....

03 If you would have called, I would have stayed.

.....

04 If Leon spoke clearly, he would win yesterday's vote.

05 If I had listened, options would have been broader now.

06 If she had more time, she accepted yesterday's invitation.

BRICK 4 · WRITE TWO TIME PATHS · APPROX. 8 MIN

Write your own English sentences. Label condition time and result time first.

01 Past decision: connect it to a present consequence.

02 Standing weakness: explain one missed past outcome.

03 Project review: combine both time paths.

.....

04 Formal email: avoid would have after if.

.....

MINI-CHECK – CAN I DO THIS YET?

- ☐ I check condition time and result time separately.
- ☐ I connect past conditions to present results.
- ☐ I connect standing conditions to past results.
- ☐ In formal writing, I keep would have out of the if-clause.

Unsure? Write the time above each clause.

Answer key

Check only when you have finished. Every answer comes with the why — the rule matters more than the result.
