Signposting Language — practice on paper

You know the spoken signposts — now choose fresh transitions for points, slides, and the close.

Spoken route: move on → point → come back → wrap up ; choose by function and register .

BRICK 1 · SORT BY FUNCTION · APPROX. 4 MIN

Sort each English phrase by its spoken function. Then check its register in the answer key.

Right, let's move on to delivery risks

So, moving on to customer feedback

That brings me to the budget figures

Let's look at the left-hand column

As you can see here, the top figure matters

Back to the delivery deadline

I'll come back to the demo point later

Back to our central question

So, to wrap up, here are two actions

So, to wrap up, one final reminder

MOVE ON & POINT	RETURN & WRAP UP

BRICK 2 · COMPLETE THE SPOKEN SIGNPOST · APPROX. 6 MIN

Insert exactly the English word in the cue. The situation, function, and register make every answer unambiguous.

- 01 Neutral transition: Right, let's move on to the _____. (use schedule)
- 02 Formal transition: That brings me to the renewal _____. (use forecast)
- 03 Neutral visual cue: Let's look at the _____. (use final column)
- 04 Formal visual cue: If you look at the _____ row, you can see the total. (use second)
- 05 Return after a detour: Back to the original _____. (use issue)
- 06 Postpone one detail: I'll come back to it after the _____. (use break)
- 07 Neutral wrap-up: So, to wrap up, here are two _____. (use decisions)
- 08 Final reminder: So, to wrap up, name the final _____. (use owner)

BRICK 3 · CORRECT THE PHRASE OR REGISTER · APPROX. 7 MIN

Each English sentence contains exactly one unsuitable phrase. Use the cue and rewrite the full sentence.

01 Conference room: The beamer is not working. (use "projector")

02 Slide change: Put the following foil on screen. (use "slide")

03 Return: I'll return later to this issue. (put "later" at the end)

04 Formal client talk: Hey guys, check row two. (use "If you look at the second row, you can see the total.")

05 Spoken update: Moreover, we now proceed to delivery. (use "Right, let's move on to the delivery schedule.")

06 Final summary: Moving on to another point, these are our final actions. (use "So, to wrap up")

BRICK 4 · PRODUCE YOUR TRANSITIONS · APPROX. 8 MIN

Write English spoken transitions for each prompt. Match the function and register to the situation.

01 Team update: move neutrally from the schedule to delivery problems.

02 Client presentation: formally direct attention to one table row.

03 Side question: postpone the detail and then return to the main topic.

04 Close: signal the summary and name two final actions.

MINI-CHECK – CAN I DO THIS YET?

- ☐ I choose a spoken transition that matches the function.
- ☐ I direct attention to the slide before the key statement.
- ☐ I put "later" at the end of the return phrase.
- ☐ I do not use written connectors as spoken signposts.

Still unsure? Name the function first, then choose a phrase in the fitting register.

Answer key

Check only when you have finished. Every answer comes with the why — the rule matters more than the result.

BRICK 4 · WRITE

Your texts may differ if every spoken signpost suits its function and register.

- | | |
|---|---|
| 01 "We have covered the schedule. So, moving on to the delivery risks. That brings me to supplier capacity."
Function: two neutral signposts move forward. 02 "If you look at the second row, you can see the total. As you can see here, the final column matters."
Register: two formal phrases direct attention. | 03 "I'll come back to the staffing detail later. Back to the launch date."
Sequence: postponing and returning remain separate. 04 "So, to wrap up, we need an owner and a deadline. One final point: both actions need dates."
Close: two signposts mark the final actions. |
